八、任务型阅读。(10分)

Years ago, if a teenager had some problems in his life, he might write about them in his diary. But now he might write in his blog(博客). In some ways, a diary and a blog are almost the same. What makes a blog different from a diary?

56 I have a younger sister. Sometimes I read her blog. She writes about things like waking up early for exercise and not studying enough for her math exam. When I was her age, I wrote the same things, but only in my diary. After I finished writing, I would hide(藏) my diary in a secret place because I was worried that someone else might read it!

A blog is public so it has some bad points. 57 If I am angry with a friend and write something bad about him in my diary, he will never know. However, if my sister writes something bad about a friend, that friend may read her blog and cry. 58

Blogs have good points, of course. If I feel lonely and write “Nobody cares about me” in my diary, no one will know about it. However, if my sister writes the same words in her blog, her friends will quickly reply and tell her how much they like her. The blog helps people keep in contact(联系) with their friends.

If people are careful, writing the blog is really a good way to communicate with others. However, I still enjoy my diary!
